WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1864.

A press of advertisements on our column his morning compels us to lay over the gen eral editoral variety.

The Albauy Journal, some days since, who it felt itself securely out of the woods in the entangled polities of its State, gave up its thir page to [the display of a large Eagle with it beak and talous carrying mottoes of victor There is a history about that old Eagle; f twenty-fonr years it has always made proclain ion of the political triumphs in the Empir State. It first appeared in the Journal in 1840 to proclaim the Harrison triumph, and since then it has alternated between the Journal as an original Whig organ, but for the last two Beaver, Otter, and Nutria Presidential elections as a Republican advocate and the Argus, the old organ of the Albau Democratic Regency, as the one or the other party has achieved political victory. During these twenty-four years the Journal has nn-loosed the jesses of the Eagle for its flight over QUALITIES, AT THE NEW STORE OF the election of Governors Seward, Fish, Hunt Young, Clark, Morgan, and Feuton, and for Presidents Harrison, Taylor, and Lincoln. The victors in these gallant lights are divided now n opinions, but still the old Eagle stretches its ions (3 lustily as ever. May we not hope EFFENTRANCE ON EITHER STREET. that the American Eagle, which is now screamng for the triumphs of the loyal legious of the ation over rebellion in arms, will, before long, be welcomed and prized by the insurgents to proclaim the victories of a reunited country ver those who have taken advantage of our over those who have taken advantage of our intestine troubles to attempt our humiliation FURS, and interfere in our private quarrels? If the Journal and Argus could, for a quarter century fly their Eagle jointly for partisau successo what is there to prevent both the North and the South from again looking up to the bearer the American flag with the old pride, love, and

In a deserted Virginia mansion on the ames river, certain inquisitive correspondents of the New York World, the other day, cam upon a batch of old bills and accounts all fairly and fully receipted, which testify, with the minute and picturesque eloquence so dear to the heart of Lord Macaulay, to the ways and customs of a Virginian cavalier in the year of grace 1840. Here is a specimeu of them: Mr. Charles Friend In account with Benjamin Hangford.

What a fine flavor, says the World, there is in this of Falstaff and the score at the Boar's Head in Eastcheap! But two dinners to this "intol crable deal" of cards and toddies! And then that ominously illusive item-"to use of room! Out of that simple phrace how easily does the imagination corjure up such a picture as gay Union used gloriously to make of themselves when the magnitums of claret, four bottles to man, had been uicely rauged along the wall and the key of the dining-room door, turned in the lock, had been dropped into the capacion pocket of the genial host, and the night was fairly begun. Observe, too, how conspicuous 'social" is the tone of these items: the toddie disappear by the half-dozen at a time; and there was surely space ou the floor of that "room" for all the friends of this most jovial old Virginiau "Frieud."

Jeff Davis, iu his last message, and iu all his other official papers, says the Confederacy is not fighting in the interests of slavery. He told that the right of secession was the very essent cause of the rebellion, or perhaps that it had become the only material object for which the revolt was continued. It it manifest, then, the he must chauge his mind before General Bu ler's propositions can be offered in the interests of humanity and peace. The Government of the United States can coucede almost anything and peace almost anything the United States can coucede almost anything and peace. The Government of the United States can coucede almost anything and peace almost anything and peace. The Government of the United States can coucede almost anything and peace almost anything and peace. ler's propositions can be offered in the interest to its "wayward sisters" except the power of disintegrating the republic whenever a State gets angry because a national election does not result to her entire satisfaction. This canker of secession must be removed from the fair bud of any anticipated solution of our difficulties, or else the armisonous clang of war will continue to reverberate through all theding States until the masses throw off the evil influence of their is condiary rulers, and speak out for

ANOTHER REDEL RAID .- Ou Friday afternoon last a small | arty of rebels dashed into Hickman, Ky., and commenced pluudering such stores and shops as they could gain access to of boots, shour, heavy cloths, &c. As soon as gendered by the adveut of so many armed rebels, they signalled the gunboat lying opposite the place. The vessel jumediately commenced firing upon the town and the yaudals retreated in hot haste, only taking a part of the stock they had calli red. When the rebels had withdraw. the guuloat moved over to the levee, and the sailors, as isted by the citizens, removed what merchandise had been spared on board and steamed up the river. Several buildings were struck by the shot and shells of the man-ofwar, but no serious damage was done to the

The library of Congress has received an addition of about four thousand books during the present year. They treat of a great variety of topics, but especially of the discovery, settlement, and topography of this continent. A Washington paper says: "The law department of the library, which is used alike by Congress and by the Supreme Court, has also received valuable additions, especially in the department of trials, American and foreign, including, in addition to all the most celebrated collections, hundreds of interesting trials reported separate ly. This collection embraces nearly every trial for treason, aucient or modern, and Is undoubtedly the most complete one outside of the British Museum.'

Last week our readers had their attention ealled to the importance of the work of the KMarket Street Architectural Foundary and Iron Works, U.S. Christian Commission by an appeal for a Thanksgiving collection from the Louisville Committee. If any have forgotten the magnitude of the Commission's work as therein set forth, we hope they will look up the paper containing it, and read it again, with a determina tion to do their whole duty to our heroic soldiers and sailors in the army and navy, who have so well defended us in the midst of our nation's peril. Let the contributions be in

Government will insist upon reparation or apology from the Brazilian Government for the act of firing upon the United States flag, on the ground that we are a recognized nation, at peace with Brazil, and if our cruiters were contraven ing her laws, she knows where to find as and how to adjudicate her claims; but the act of opening tire upon our vessels will be rebuked. We do not believe that any difficulty can be fanned between our Government and that of

The Sixth Congressional District of New York was the scene of a quadrangular contest on the 8th, and it was very close. Two Democrats and two Republicans were in the field.
